The Editorial Board owes special thanks to...

Haverford's student body, which submitted nearly a hundred papers of extraordinary quality and made our pilot issue blissfully difficult to assemble.

Haverford faculty members who encouraged their students to submit papers and prove their intellectual vitality.

Greg Kannerstein for abandoning family, friends, and anything else he thought this life might have to offer him in order to find time to edit papers.

Tom Tritton and Joe Tolliver for their initial encouragement and continued support.

Students Council for putting up seed money.

Julie Kleinman and Drew Konove for refusing to go gently into the good night that is life after Haverford.

Rob Schiff for daring to dream.
